EDUCATION

“Providing our children with a quality education is one of the most important challenges Maryland faces.”

As a mother, Loretta Gaffney wants greater accountability for failing schools and an emphasis on core subjects like math, reading, and history. As our next State Delegate, Loretta will work to recruit and retain the best qualified teachers and require teachers to be proficient in the subjects they teach.

Loretta Gaffney supports re-directing money from the bureaucracy to the classroom. She wants to give local schools flexibility in deciding how to allocate their resources.

When it comes to education Loretta Gaffney is a parent rather than a politician.
